Except in certain special cases, embalming is not required by law. However, embalming may be necessary if you select certain funeral arrangements that include viewing. If you do not want embalming, you usually have the right to choose an arrangement that does not require you to pay for it, such as direct cremation or immediate burial. Shipment via common carrier (airplane or train) or entombment may also require embalming. Washington state law requires that the funeral home must either embalm or refrigerate as soon as possible after removal of deceased from place of death and until final disposition: Sec. 17 Revised Code Washington 18.39.215 (2)(a) Any licensee authorized to dispose of human remains shall refrigerate or embalm the human remains upon receipt of the human remains.
